

There is a faster and easier way to record your land record documents!

Consider electronically recording your documents through our e-recording vendors. The many benefits of e-recording include:

- Receive your recording information electronically after the document has been processed, usually the same day.
- Immediate feedback regarding document deficiencies which helps submitters comply with the time constraints in the CFPB regulations.
- Cost savings by not having to mail documents and wait for them to be recorded and returned.
- Documents that are e-recorded are quickly accessible and viewable allowing for timely updates and reducing problems with the recording gap.
